

Charities the winners from greyhound racing

A BUNCH of Broncos have joined forces to give greyhound racing a go and it's all for charity.

Shaun and Barry Berrigan, Brett Seymour, Ben Ikin, Mick Hancock, Andrew Gee, Brent Tate, Sam Thaiday, Paul Dyer and Peter Nolan have joined a syndicate to race a now 17 month old pup by Yo Yo's Boy-Bush Champagne.

The youngster has been broken in with good reports and is now spelling at Charlie Mifsud's property.

Donated by Sue Smith, the pup already has a racing name ... Ripped Rite Up. The name is a saying the Broncos boys say when they are impressed with the physique of a player.

Tony Brett will train the dog and the Childrens Hospital will benefit from any prizemoney it earns.

Helen Ivers and Paul Felgate are behind the donation of six pups from an eight-pup litter by champion sire Just The Best- Top Shelf.

Felgate owns Just The Best and donated the service to the champion, while Ivers raced Top Shelf a middle distance star at Albion Park a couple of years ago and from one of Ivers' best damlines.

Ivers and Felgate will keep one of the eight pups each, but the other six will be given to different charities.

The charities then have the right to either auction the pups and keep the proceeds, or race their pup and retain the prizemoney it may earn.
